Private Offer- Financed through third-party lender

Sample scenario: ISV has a customer interested in financing a multi-year software deal. The ISV and the customer leverage AWS Marketplace Customer Finance Team's third-party lender relationships and request finance options for the customer.

1. Upon credit approval, the customer selects a financing option and signs a finance agreement with the selected lender.
2. The ISV creates and extends an AWS Marketplace Private Offer to the customer with upfront payment terms.
3. Customer subscribes to the AWS Marketplace Private Offer.
4. AWS invoices the customer for the Private Offer, plus any applicable tax.
5. Customer forwards the AWS invoice to the lender. Note: The AWS invoice will be issued to the customer's billing account name and address and cannot be amended by AWS. Customers are able to use the purchase order field to list lender name and address for reference.
6. Lender remits payment to AWS. Note: Customer's AWS account and invoice numbers must be referenced with payment.
7. AWS disburses payment to the ISV, less the AWS Marketplace listing fee.
8. Lender invoices customer per the finance agreement repayment schedule and terms.

AWS Marketplace Customer Financing Frequently Asked Questions

What is AWS Marketplace Customer Financing?

AWS Marketplace Customer Financing provides support for financing by helping to obtain third-party lender options for AWS Marketplace Private Offer, Channel Partner Private Offers, and Professional Services purchases.

Do I have to use AWS Marketplace Customer Financing's lender options?

Customers can choose to work with a third-party lender of choice (including Channel Partner lenders) or choose to leverage AWS Marketplace Customer Financing's lender relationships.

Can you provide me with an interest rate indication without customer information?

Interest rates are quoted by third-party lenders upon customer credit review. After customer information is provided we are able to provide interest rate quotes within 48 hours.

Is AWS Marketplace Customer Financing able to provide me with finance options in my specific geographic region?

Contact us for currently supported geographic regions.

My customer's Channel Partner is providing financing and requested that the customer's AWS invoice be issued in the Channel Partner's name. Is this possible?

AWS invoices are generated with the customer's billing account name and address. We are unable to make changes to invoices. Customers are able to use the purchase order field to list lender name and address for reference.

Do financed AWS Marketplace purchases apply to AWS spend commitments?

Financed AWS Marketplace purchases (excluding Professional Services) apply to AWS spend commitments.

How does the ISV and Channel Partner (if applicable) payment disbursement process work for financed AWS Marketplace purchases?

Once payment for the customer's invoice is received by AWS, payment is disbursed at net terms to the ISV and Channel Partner on their assigned regular payment disbursement date. See this video and the AWS Marketplace Seller Guide for more information on Private Offer disbursements.

I have a deal that needs to close quickly. How long will it take to obtain finance options for my customer?

Finance quotes are generally available within 48 hours of a quote request.
